Sloan's MAXXDuty 3-in-1 Wrap Provides Strength in Numbers

Products tight bundle combines rubber air lines and ABS electrical cord together for maximum cold weather protection

(Holland, MI) – To help keep air hoses and electrical cables working in extreme winter weather conditions, Sloan Transportation Products has introduced its new MAXXDuty™ 3-in-1 Wrap. The 3-in-1 Wrap consists of two 3/8" rubber air lines equipped with Sloan's Dura-Grip™ handles and one 7-way ABS electrical cord, tightly bound together with a spiral wrapping.

"This product has been very popular with our Canadian customers who are exposed to some of the harshest conditions," said Chris Terryn, product manager, Sloan Transportation Products. "When snow and ice accumulate on the top of the trailer and a driver makes a quick stop, the build-up can shift forward, falling between the truck and trailer, causing the coiled air and electrical lines to become damaged. By combining these three components into one tight bundle, our product provides added strength to protect vital systems against winter's worst conditions."

Additionally the 3-in-1 Wrap keeps coiled air lines from becoming entangled, a frequent problem during normal service that can limit the operational range and create difficulties in replacing a failed hose assembly. It also provides one assembly to store and keep track of when bob tailing. The Sloan 3-in-1 Wrap is available in 12-, 15- and 20-foot lengths. Additional, black wrap can be purchased in 15- or 100-foot lengths.
